Liquor Law-An Appeal Taken. Eli Dagenias was found guilty of having a reputation of violating the liquor laws by Judge Harry E. Back in the town court Monday morning and was fined $100 and costs. The count against the defendant alleging the keeping of liquors with intent to sell was not sustained by the court.

The court room was crowded, even beyond standing room capacity when the time came for taking up the case, but because of the lack of ventilation and its attendant discomforts, Judge Back ordered the room cleared.

Attorney Arthur G. Bill prosecuted for the state. Attorney Charles L. Torrey of Danlelson was counsel for Mr. Dagenias.

The hearing was long drawn out, many witnesses testifying as to Dagenias' reputation relative to selling liquor. The majority of them gave as evidence their knowledge of what kind of a place he kept from their own observations and from what other persons had said to them relative to the place. Business men with places in the vicinity of Dagenias' place told, in answer to questions, what they had seen about the basement of the Evans block but none of them said fairly that he believed that liquor was being sold in the place.

William Hamilton and Arthur Gay, now serving time at Brooklyn jail for becoming intoxicated, were brought over for the hearing and their evidence was practically the same as that which they gave the court after they were sentenced to jail about three weeks ago. Both claim to have purchased whiskey of the defendant.

The state introduced other witnesses whose testimony aided in strengthening the effort to establish a reputation. The count alleging keeping with intent to sell was regarded as not proved by the state and the court did not find the defendant guilty on it.

Dagenias appealed from the decision. His bond was fixed at $500, which was furnished by S. P. Humphrey.

Harry Chippendale remains a prisoner at Brooklyn jail, held on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of a New London woman following a criminal operation. At first Chippendale seemed confident that he would be quickly able to secure the bond of $800 required for his release and there was reason to believe that he would be successful in so doing, but as the days have passed his chances of being released on bail have apparently diminished. There is a possibility, however, that should he be able to get the bond and his liberty that he might again be immediately taken into custody by Warden Garvin of the state prison, as he is out on parole from that institution.

A UNIVERSAL FOOD Following Nature's Footsteps.

"I have a boy, two years old, weighing forty pounds and in perfect health, who has been raised on Grape-Nuts

"This is an ideal food and evidently furnishes the elements necessary for a beby as well as for adults. We have used Grape-Nuts in large quantities and greatly to our advantage."

One advantage about Grape-Nuts food is that it is pre-digested in the process of manufacture; that is, the starch contained in the wheat and barrey is transformed into a form of sugar by the same method as this process is carried out in the human body, that is, by the use of moisture and ong exposure to moderate warmth which grows the distase in the grains and makes the remarkable change from starch to sugar.

The guessing is that when they have finished their labors the total number of persons accredited to the town of Putnam will be in excess of 7.348, which was the total when the census of 1960 was taken.

The census of 1960 showed that Putnam had made a gain of $36 during the ten years between that date and 1890, the time of the second last enumeration. The prophets say that 8,000 or better will be Putnam's rating for 1910.
